DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1 and 26-88 are pending.

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions, which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1 and 26-86, drawn to a solid aqueous gel.

Group II, claim(s) 87-88, are drawn to a method of making up.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The phrase "special technical features" is defined in PCT Rule 13.2 as "those technical features that define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art". The reference to Kauffmann et al, US 5,286,755, (abstract and column 1, line 59 to column 2, line 6) teaches the formation of aqueous gels reading on claim 26 and direct is evidence that the invention is not a contribution over the art when considered as a whole as claimed.

Art Unit: 1712

Election of species

3. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows: the specification lists a number of hydrophilic gelling agents for use in the solid aqueous gels, which are not a contribution over the art when considered as a whole.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

4. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner: the claims list a number of hydrophilic gelling agents that include different structures including polysaccharides, proteins, synthetic and semi-synthetic polyesters, poly(meth)acrylates, and derivatives.

A review of Kauffmann et al, US 5,286,755, shows that not all hydrophilic gelling agents are equally useful since Kauffmann et al uses the further propylene glycol alginate as a hydrophilic gelling agents in combination with a suitable polyethylene glycol. Kauffmann et al employs divinylbenzylidene-ose compounds in combination with sulfosuccinate hardening agents. Kauffmann et al is clear evidence that the listed hydrophilic gelling agents employed in a solid aqueous gel in combination with a polyethylene glycol having 12 to 180 molar units of oxyethylene when considered as a whole are not a contribution over the art as at least claimed in claim 26.

The following claim(s) are generic: 1 and 26-86. While the claims limit subspecies to species, said claims do not limit the genus and therefore read on the remaining species in the genus.

5. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: all hydrophilic gelling agents do not have the same utilities or the same gel strengths. Specific examples include anionic gelling agents that have irritable anionic groups or varied strength naturally derived gelling agents.

6. This election is being mailed for applicants' full consideration. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
